

Sprint 2 Burndown Analysis

The planned velocity differs from the actual velocity, especially for the first week. The main reason it ended up this way is because we spent most of the first week working on assignment 1 and studying for midterms. However for week 2, there was no assignment 1 so even if there were ongoing midterms, we could devote much more time for this project. If the sprint only consisted of week 2, I think the actual velocity would have more closely resembled our planned velocity, due to the extra time we had.
